

INDEX

- Ainsworth-Vaughn, Nancy, 149
- Alatis, James E., 1–2, 10
- American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages' (ACTFL) Early Language Learner Guidelines, 187
- Anderson, R. M., 151
- Ankersmit, Frank, 110n2
- Antonek, Janis, 179
- arts learning environments. See policymakers and educators, and the discourse of denial
- audiences. See political discourse and the voice of the audience
- Bartaux, Daniel, 85
- Barthes, Roland, 109
- Bateson, Gregory, 143, 144, 145
- Bavelas, Janet Beavin, 51
- Beavin, Janet, 145
- Beebe, Beatrice, 15
- Beer, Susan, 88–108. See also oral histories and discourse analysis
- Blum-Kulka, Shoshana, 50, 54, 61n2
- Bock, Mary, 73–74
- Brown, Roger, 52, 61n3
- Byers, Paul, 13
- Capps, Walter, 115–32. See also political discourse and the voice of the audience
- Chafe, Wallace: on intonation units, 11, 33; on laughter and emotion, 41, 48. See also laughter and the feeling of nonseriousness
- Chartiers Valley School District. See foreign language instruction at elementary school level (FLES), and Chartiers Valley School District Spanish program
- children's acquisition of language, 15–17, 50
- Chomsky, Noam, 135
- Christensen, Kathleen, 61n1
- Clayman, Steven E., 122
- Clinton, Bill, 138, 140–44. See also narrative in construction of social and political identity
- Clinton, Hillary, 138, 140–44. See also narrative in construction of social and political identity
- Cohen, Judy, 95
- Corpus of Spoken American English (University of California, Santa Barbara), 36
- denial. See policymakers and educators, and the discourse of denial
- Derrida, Jacques, 109
- diabetes. See medical discourse issues and accounts of noncompliance
- discourse analysis: Labov and narrative analysis, 73, 74, 135; and role of GURT, 1, 2, 7; Schiffrin on narrative analysis, 135–36. See also medical discourse issues and accounts of noncompliance; oral histories and discourse analysis; policymakers and educators, and the discourse of denial; political discourse and the voice of the audience
- Dominguez, Rocío, 186
- Donato, Richard, 178–79, 189. See also foreign language instruction at elementary school level (FLES), and Chartiers Valley School District Spanish program
- Dostert, Leon, 9
- Duranti, Alessandro. See political discourse and the voice of the audience
- Erickson, Frederick, 12, 18. See also musicality of speech
- Ervin-Tripp, Susan, 54
- ethnomusicology, 12–13
- Evans, Richard, 109
- event structures in oral narratives of personal experience, 63–83; adjustments that minimize speakers' guilt, 76–81; ambiguous constructions and, 80–81; apologetic expressions and, 79; assignments of praise/blame by integration/polarization of participants, 64; beginning of narratives, 66–67; causal sequences/relations assigned, 64, 66, 67–70, 76–77, 80–81, 83n5; complicating actions, 64, 65, 70; and credibility, 64, 66–67, 82n4; deletions of events, 64, 72–73, 77–78, 81; evaluations of actions and, 64, 65–66, 79; framework for study, 64–65; general research findings on, 63–64; Hawkins' narrative, 65–68, 70–71; and independent evidence of events, 63, 82n2; inverse relationship of credibility and reportability, 67; listeners' orientations and, 64, 65, 67, 70; listeners' understanding/impressions and, 82; and lying, 64, 74; narrative abstracts and, 64, 65, 82n3; practical reasoning and, 76, 78; and reassignments of responsibility, 68–70, 71, 73; reportability and most reportable events, 66–67, 71, 76–77, 82n3; semantic compositions/linguistic devices and, 68–70, 73, 74, 80–81, 83n6; small-town narrative, 63, 65–73; and special pleading, 78, 79–80; temporal

- organization of narratives, 63, 64, 65, 70;
 termination of narratives, 65; tools for locating structures, 63, 65–73; and transformations of reality, 63, 64, 81–82; Truth and Reconciliation Hearings testimony, 63, 73–82, 83nn9, 10, 11; Van Wyk's oral narrative, 75–79; and zero causative drove, 68–70, 73, 83n6
- family conversational interactions, 50–62; connection maneuvers, 51, 52, 55;
 fathers and, 54–55, 61n4;
 lexical distinctions between respect and familiarity, 53–54; linguistic framing in, 50, 55;
 mothers and, 53–55, 61n4; relationships between power/hierarchies and connection/solidarity, 50, 51–55, 61nn2, 3, 4; “telling your day” ritual, 54–55, 61n4; and ventriloquizing, 55–61.
See also ventriloquizing in family interaction
- Fanshel, David, 102
 Fasold, Ralph, 10
 Feldstein, Stanley, 11 foreign language education in America, traditional, 178 foreign language instruction at elementary school level (FLES), and Chartiers Valley School
 District Spanish program, 178–95; assessments of student progress, 179, 183–84, 186–89, 193–94;
 assumed future advantages for bilingual students, 180, 190; choice of language, 179, 180–81, 190; classroom teachers and, 182, 187, 191; collaborative styles in, 182, 185; current program status, 186–89, 192; curriculum in, 181–83, 192;
 determining proficiency expectations, 179, 185;
 determining starting grade level, 179; development of action plan and early goals, 181–82; and Early Language Learner
 Guidelines, 187–89;
 expansions of program, 183–85, 192; future of program, 194; high school level and, 192;
 implementation issues, 178–79; implementation timetable, 180–81; incorporation into core curriculum, 182–83, 191;
 instruction model of, 179, 182; intermediate level/middle school, 184–85; and interview protocol, 189; interview respondents, discussion themes of, 189–92; and notion of “empowerment,” 191; origins of program, 179–80,
 189–90; parental involvement in, 180–81, 183–84, 193–94; parents and assessment, 183–84, 193–94; planning, role of, 185, 190–91; planning meetings, 179–80, 183, 184–85, 190–91, 193;
 and progress in proficiency, 185; repetition issue and, 185, 194; shared vision articulated in, 189–90; success of program, factors contributing to, 185–86, 192–94;
 superintendent's involvement in, 179–80, 189–90, 191, 193; teacher assessment instruments,
 187–88; teacher hiring, 181–82, 183, 185; teacher quality, 185–86; teachers, 181–82, 183, 185–86,
 187–88, 191–92; teachers as “reflective practitioners,” 185–86; teacher support in, 191
- Foreign Language on Request Elementary
 Spanish (FLORES)
 program, 183
 Friedheim, Donald, 90
- Galed, Claire, 65
 Geertz, Clifford, 176
 Geertz, Hildred, 53
 Georgetown University Round Table on Languages and Linguistics (GURT): and discourse analysis, 1, 2, 7; history of, 1–2, 9–10;
 and sociolinguistics, 1, 2, 10, 145n1; GURT 1972,
 10; GURT 1981, 1, 2, 10,
 12, 18; GURT 1984, 10;
 GURT 1985, 1; GURT
 1988, 2; GURT 2000, 10;
 GURT 2001, 1, 2, 7, 10,
 145n1
 Gilman, Albert, 52, 61n3
 Goals 2000: Educate America Act, 178
 Goldhagen, Daniel, 111n11
 Goodwin, Charles, 117
 Gordon, Cynthia, 56, 61n1
 Gratier, Maya, 15, 17
 Gumperz, John, 1
 Gurewitsch, Bonnie, 85, 95,
 97, 98, 111n6
- Hamilton, Heidi, 10. See also medical discourse issues and accounts of noncompliance
- Hartman, Geoffrey, 108
 Hawkins, Ross, 65–73. See also event structures in oral narratives of personal experience
- Heath, Shirley Brice. See
 policymakers and educators, and the discourse of denial
- Henwood, Karen L., 61n4
 Hilberg, Raul, 111n11
 Holocaust oral histories,
 85–88, 90, 93–94, 98, 108, 111n7. See also oral histories and discourse analysis

- Institute of Languages and Linguistics at Georgetown University, 9
Interagency Language Roundtable (ILR), 10
- Jackson, Don, 145
Jaffe, Joseph, 11
Johnston, Alexandra, 57, 58, 61n1 jokes, 116–22. See also laughter and the feeling of nonseriousness; political discourse and the voice of the audience
- Keith-Spiegel, Patricia, 46
Kendall, Shari, 50, 61n1
- Labov, William: on B-events, 102; and narrative analysis, 73, 74, 135; and sociolinguistics, 145n1. See also event structures in oral narratives of personal experience
- Lado, Robert, 9–10
Lakoff, Robin: on goals of linguistics, 7, 145n1; on GURT 2001 and sociolinguistics, 2, 145n1. See also narrative in construction of social and political identity
- Lang, Berel, 109, 111n1
Langer, Lawrence, 88
laughter and the feeling of nonseriousness, 36–48; and brain states and neural events, 39; as coming in degrees, 40; consonantal laughs and, 38; contagiousness of, 40, 43; as experienced simultaneously with other emotions, 46; expressions of the feeling, 39–41, 48; expulsions of air and audible inhalations, 36–38, 41, 48; as fading slowly, 40; functions of the feeling, 41–44, 48; and ingressive voicing, 37; as involuntary, 39–40; as mitigating unpleasantness, 44–46, 48; nonactionable experiences and pseudo-plausibility, 42–44, 48; oral articulations, 38; past studies of, 36; phonetics of, 36–39; as physically disabling, 41, 48; and play, 42; pleasantness of the feeling, 41, 48; as preventing inappropriate actions, 41–42, 48; properties of the feeling, 39–41; as psychologically disabling, 41, 48; ridicule and the “superiority theory,” 46–47; smiling and, 38–39; as social lubricant, 47–48; stimuli/triggers for, 44–48; transcription conventions for, 36, 37–38, 39; universality of the feeling, 40–41; vocalic laughs and, 38; and the word “funny,” 43 linguistics and history. See oral histories and discourse analysis literacy learning field in Papua New Guinea, 166–67, 172–76. See also policymakers and educators, and the discourse of denial
- Litteral, Robert, 172–73
Lyman, Stanford, 152–53, 155, 156–57
- Malloch, Stephen, 13, 15, 17
Markee, Numa, 186, 189, 192–93
Maynard, Douglas W., 149
McCormick, Kay, 73–74
medical discourse issues and accounts of noncompliance, 147–65; account components, 153–56; account patterns, 158–60; accounts, defining, 152; accounts as evidence, 152–53, 157; account structures, 157–60; account types, 153, 157; action statements in accounts, 155–56; asymmetries in discourse, 148–49; compliance challenges in diabetes, 150–52, 154–55; compliance/noncompliance, defining, 164n2; connection between patients’ voices and noncompliance, 149–50; excuses and, 153, 157; expectations and noncompliance, 152–53, 156–60, 163–64; expectation statements and, 153–55; and food consumption, 155–56, 157, 158–59, 160; and food procurement, 155–56, 158–59; and frustration of physicians and patients, 151–52, 154–55, 163; “give in and go get” account pattern, 158–59; individual attention, patients’ desire for, 161; individual differences underlying noncompliant actions, 161; interactional effects of discourse strategies, 162–63; and justifications, 153, 157; and knowledge statements, 153–55, 157–58, 163; medical discourse analysis and linguistics, 147, 148–50; motivation and, 158–60; and national health care problem/health costs, 148; patient lifeworlds and personal experience narratives, 149; patients’ appeals to biological drives, 157; patients’ compliance responsibilities and decisions, 152; patients’ personal attribute statements, 156–57, 158–60; physician encouragement of account-giving, 161–63; physician-patient interactions, discourse of, 148–50, 161–63; physician strategies to encourage compliance, 151–52,

- 161–63; roadblocks to compliance, 158–60; “see and succumb” account pattern, 159–60; verbal bridges between noncompliance and expectations/knowledge, 152–53, 156–60, 163–64; videotape data, 150
- Millar, Frank E., 51
- Mishler, Elliot G., 149
- Murday, Kimmaree, 178–79, 189
- musicality of speech, 11–34; cadence as rhythmic gestalt, 25; cadential patterns in speech, 13–17, 25–34; classroom speech examples of, 27–33; and communication of new information, 12, 23, 24, 25, 27, 30, 32, 34; dinner table speech examples, 25–27, 28–29; and implications for social communication, 34; and “listening response relevance,” 34; marking of kairos moments, 33–34; measurements of cadential patterns in speech, 13–17, 26, 34; mother–infant speech and, 13–16, 17; musical speech and, 25–33; past studies of temporal organization in speech, 11–12, 13, 18; quasi-musical notation of speech, 12–13, 18, 25, 26, 34; and recitative genre in music, 18–25, 27, 34; and rhetorical emphasis/persuasion, 33, 34; ritual speech-like music in Latin Mass, 17–18; as scaffolding for children’s speech acquisition, 15–17; and sound spectrograph prints, 13–16, 34; speech-like music and, 17–25, 34; and “transition relevance,” 12, 30, 32, 34. See also recitative genre in music
- narrative in construction of social and political identity, 135–46; American shared group narrative, breakdown of, 140–41, 144–45, 146n5; aporias, 140–44; Clintons’ relationship, 138, 140–44; defining narrative, 135; dysfunctional narratives and psychotherapy, 139–40, 142; dysfunctional narratives of societies, 140; functional aspects/components of narrative, 136, 137; functions of news stories as narrative in culture, 139; narrative as culture-creating, 137; narrative competition and narrative incohesion, 142, 144–45, 146n5; narrative incohesion and schismogenesis, 142–44, 145; news stories, construction of, 137, 146n3; news stories and narrative-based social cohesion, 137, 138, 142; news stories and the Undue Attention Test, 138; news stories as narrative, 137–39, 142, 146n3; O. J. Simpson story, 138, 140–44; sentence-narrative analogy, 136, 145n2; structural analyses of narrative, 135–36; study of narrative within humanities and social sciences, 135, 139; tenacity of narratives, 141
- National Educational Longitudinal Survey, 169
- National Standards for Foreign Language Education, 178
- news stories. See narrative in construction of social and political identity
- noncompliant behaviors in medicine. See medical discourse issues and accounts of noncompliance
- nonseriousness. See laughter and the feeling of nonseriousness
- Ochs, Elinor, 50, 54–55
- O’Connor, Mary Catherine, 54
- oral histories and discourse analysis, 84–113; and American memory culture, 86, 87, 88, 110n3; combinations of narrative modes, and multivocality, 87–88; commemorative purposes/functions, 86; functions and features of, 84–88; History and post-modern perspective on language and meaning, 109–10; and history/History, 85, 88, 108–10, 110n2; Holocaust oral histories, 85–88, 90, 93–94, 98, 108, 111n7; implications for study of History, 108–9; and issues of interest to linguists, 108, 110; and levels of mediation, 85–86; multivocality and, 87–88, 109, 111n11; narrative genre and narrative themes, 87; oral histories as “data” for discourse analysis, 84, 88, 108–10; publishing processes and, 85–86; scholarship on, 84–86, 87, 108; and socially constituted linguistic perspectives, 110; transcription issues, 85–86, 88, 93–94, 98, 108, 111n7; use as factual documents, 85. See also oral histories and discourse analysis, and Susan Beer’s encounter with Hannah Szenes
- oral histories and discourse analysis, and Susan Beer’s encounter with Hannah Szenes, 88–108; and Beer’s level of agency, 102–3; and Beer’s life story, 89, 94–95, 97–98, 99, 104,

- oral histories and discourse analysis (continued) 107–8, 111n6; and centrality of Szenes, 103, 105; comparing interview and web texts, 99–108; contextual parameters of, 97–98; and descriptive evaluation, 101–2, 104, 107, 111n10; differing voices, audiences, and contexts of texts, 108; divergences in characterization of Szenes, 106–7; dual functions of spatial configurations in, 104; event-types, comparing, 100–103, 111n9; and historical trajectory of Jewish persecution, 94–95; information appearing in both texts, 106; internal states in, 101–3; intertextual themes and, 94–95, 99; interview text, 89, 90–95, 99, 101–2, 105–6; Judaic significance and Holocaust scholarship/commemoration, 98, 99; narrative functions in interview, 91–93; physical actions and attributes in, 101–3; referring terms/referential patterns, 99–100, 111n8; speech acts and participation structure of interview, 90–91; structuring devices and temporal markers, 103; and Szenes' life story, 89–90, 105–6; transcription conventions and issues, 93–94, 98, 111n7; visual and graphic conventions, 98; web text, 89, 95–98, 101–3, 104, 105–6, 107–8, 111nn5, 6, 7
- Oral History Interview Guidelines* (Ringelheim, Donahue, and Rubin), 85
- oral narratives. See event structures in oral narratives of personal experience; oral histories and discourse analysis; speech, temporal organization in
- Papua New Guinea, literacy learning field in, 166–67, 172–76. See also policymakers and educators, and the discourse of denial
- policymakers and educators, and the discourse of denial, 166–77; arts-based youth organizations and development of skills and socialization, 167–69; and assumptions regarding target population data sources, 166–67, 172–76; attitudes toward reading aloud in Papua New Guinea, 174–75; and boundaries to keep out “experience-near” understandings, 176; and challenges of literacy teaching, 174–76; denial by assertion of false dichotomies, 170; denial by claim that research findings are critical of schools, 170–71; denial by disparagement of nontraditional learning, 171; denial by “narrative avoidance,” 170; and denial discourse, 169–71, 176; four response strategies for denying research findings, 169–71; and institutional educational experiences, 176–77; and issue of lifelong learning, 171; literacy learning field in Papua New Guinea, 166–67, 172–76; policymakers/educators and research regarding out-of-school arts learning environments, 166, 167–71, 176; and research on effective learning environments, 167–69; and research on societies' uses of literacy, 175; role of written language in Papua New Guinea, 172, 174–75
- political discourse and the voice of the audience, 114–33; attacking without “being mean,” 126–31, 132; audience expectations of mean-spiritedness, 126, 132; audiences' differing interpretations of words, 122–26, 127–32; the Capps-for-Congress campaign and description of project, 115–16; designing jokes for different audiences, 116–22; displays of restrained demeanor, 124–25; framing and rhetorical call-and-response format, 128–29; humorous interpretations imposed by audience, 123–24; itinerary-narrative joke, 117–22, 126; necessity of speakers' ability to evaluate their audience, 131; necessity of speakers' ability to speak without a script, 131; nonserious keys and subsequent modification of planned words, 125–26; ongoing modifications and adjustments to speech, 117; “recipient design” and, 114, 116–17; scholarship on speakers' addressing of different audiences, 114–15, 122; and sensitivity to audience, 115, 116–22, 131; speaker's answering of own questions, 129–30; spontaneous inventions and repetition across speech events, 114–15; strategies of dealing with unintended audience interpretations, 127–31, 132; strategies of reducing

- implications of audience response, 123–26; struggles to maintain control of goals, values, and meanings, 115, 122, 126, 131–32; and telling of stories, 130–31; transcription conventions in recording of speeches, 134; use of emotional personal narratives, 123–24
- politics. See narrative in construction of social and political identity; political discourse and the voice of the audience
- Portelli, Alessandro, 85–86, 87
- postmodernist perspective on language, 109–10
- Provine, Robert, 44
- psychotherapy and dysfunctional narratives, 139–40, 142
- quasi-musical notation of speech, 12–13, 18, 25, 26, 34. See also musicality of speech
- Raffray, Claudine, 73–74 “recipient design,” 114, 116–17
- recitative genre in music, 18–25, 27, 34; Bach cantatas, 20–21; Bach’s St. Matthew Passion oratorio, 21–22; Caccini’s Euridice opera, 19; Handel’s Messiah oratorio, 22–23, 27; invention of genre, 18–19; opera and oratorio, 18–23; Schoenberg’s chamber music (Pierrot Lunaire), 24–25; stressed words and communication of new information, 23, 24, 25, 27. See also musicality of speech
- Rogers, L. Edna, 51
- Rosenberg, Jarrett, 54
- Sacks, Harvey, 66
- Saussure, Ferdinand de, 109
- Schafer, Roy, 139
- Schiffrin, Deborah: and GURT 1984, 10; on narrative analysis, 135–36; on “speaking for another,” 55. See also oral histories and discourse analysis
- School of Foreign Service at Georgetown University, 9
- School of Languages and Linguistics (SLL) at Georgetown University, 9–10
- schools. See policymakers and educators, and the discourse of denial
- Scollon, Ron, 12, 13, 18
- Scott, Marvin, 152–53, 155, 156–57
- Seastrand, Andrea, 116, 126–30
- Shandler, Jeffrey, 110n3
- Shuy, Roger, 10
- Simpson, O. J., 138, 140–44.
See also narrative in construction of social and political identity
- social identity. See narrative in construction of social and political identity
- sociolinguistics, 1, 2, 10, 110, 145n1
- speech, temporal organization in: and cadential timing patterns, 13–17, 25–34; and Chafe’s intonation studies, 11, 33; cross-cultural comparisons of, 11; and Erickson’s 1981 GURT paper, 12, 18; and intonation units in speech and Western music, 11, 33; music and, 11, 12; past studies, 11–12, 13, 18; pitch and timing studies in mother-infant interactions, 11; and Scollon’s 1981 GURT paper, 12, 18; and use of quasi-musical notation, 12–13, 18, 25, 26, 34; Van Leeuwen and emotional connotations of pitch contours, 11. See also musicality of speech
- Spence, Donald, 139
- Szenes, Hannah, 88–108. See also oral histories and discourse analysis
- Tannen, Deborah: and GURT 1981, 1, 10; and GURT 2001, 2, 10; on GURT history, 1–2. See also family conversational interactions; ventriloquizing in family interaction
- Taylor, Carolyn, 54–55
- Tec, Nechama, 85
- temporal organization of narratives. See event structures in oral narratives of personal experience
- temporal organization of speech. See speech, temporal organization in
- ten Have, Paul, 149
- Todhunter, Sue, 186
- transcription of speech: ethnomusicology issues and, 12–13; Holocaust oral histories and, 85–86, 88, 93–94, 98, 111n7; laughter and, 36, 37–38, 39; in oral histories and discourse analysis, 85–86, 88, 93–94, 98, 108, 111n7; political discourse and, 134
- Truth and Reconciliation Commission (TRC) (South Africa), 63, 73–82, 83nn9, 10, 11. See also event structures in oral narratives of personal experience
- Tucker, G. Richard, 178–79, 189. See also foreign language instruction at elementary school level (FLES), and Chartiers Valley School District Spanish program
- University of Edinburgh, 11, 13
- University of Konstanz, 11

- Van Leeuwen, Theo, 11
- Van Wyk, Cornelius Johannes, 74–81. See
also event structures in oral narratives of personal experience
- Varenne, Herve, 51
- Veit-Brause, Irmline, 110n2
- ventriloquizing in family interaction, 50–62; apologies and, 56–57; canonical form of, 51; as connection maneuver, 56, 57, 58, 61; as “constructed dialogue,” 55, 57–58; as control/power maneuver, 56, 57, 58, 61; defining,
51, 55; as framing device, 55–56, 58–60; humor and nonseriousness in, 56, 58;
and indirect criticism, 58, 60, 61n5; other related strategies, 51, 57–58; as power maneuver/connection maneuver simultaneously, 51, 56–57, 58, 60, 61;
and power/solidarity in families, 50, 51–55;
- and tape recordings of family interactions, 50–51, 56–60, 61n1. See also family conversational interactions
- Waletzky, Joshua, 73, 74
- Walsh, Edmund A., S.J., 9
- Watts, Richard J., 51
- Watzlawick, Paul, 145
- White, Hayden, 109
- Wieviorka, Anna, 87
- Young, James, 109